Jeremiah Blum is not the best behaved boy in the world. When he is hurt in a road accident, the mysterious Nurse Alby is there to heal him, body and soul.

Once again, nurse Alby sat in his chair with his legs crossed and his hands tucked neatly into his sleeves. This time, instead of his hair retracting, more hair popped out from the top of the cap. His hair turned completely white with strange little curls in it and tied behind with a black ribbon. His shirt fitted better and at the ends of his sleeves, lace-like ends appeared. The colour pattern on his trousers looked as though it were running together, like wet paint sprayed by a hose.
